Allergies and medical conditions.

It can be helpful if, especially in the event of an emergency, we are aware of any allergies or medical conditions from which you may suffer, or by which you may be affected.

This is, of course, optional, and all notifications of such will be kept entirely confidential.

In the case of food allergies, as we feed people at most events, it can be helpful to let the cooks know in advance of an event, so that they can ensure you are catered for.
